POISON CASE IS BAFFLING TO OFFICIALS

Santa Rosa Girl, 19, Dies in Convulsions Today

YOUNGER SISTER ILL

Girl Says She Swallowed Something Like a Pill During Night

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Jan. 10.—An autopsy to determine whether Johanna D. Haberhauer, aged 19, of Santa Rosa, was the victim of some night-prowling poisoner, was being held here today. Miss Haberhauer died during the night and her sister Mary, aged 16, was still seriously ill today from the effects of "something like a pill" which the younger girl said she swallowed during the night.

Authorities found the case one of the most mysterious they have encountered. During the night the younger of the two sisters, who were sleeping together, arose and told her mother and father that her sister was in convulsions and that she was sick from swallowing "something like a pill." Simple house hold remedies were given as first aid and a physician was called.

Johanna died in agony 20 minutes before the physician reached the Haberhauer home. He was able to save the younger sister.

Officers were called immediately to investigate, and an autopsy was ordered this morning, to be followed by an inquest later in the day.

Investigation showed that a grape vine leading from the ground to the roof of the house, passed the window of the room where the two girls were sleeping. It would have formed an easy means for a prowler to enter.

The younger girl said today that when they retired for the night her impression was that the window was down. When she arose to call help, the window was open.

Sheriff John Boyes was inclined to the theory of murder as an explanation and ordered the investigation to proceed on that basis.

The Haberhauer family resides at Bellevue, a suburb, two miles from Santa Rosa, where the father is engaged in farming. The younger of the two girls attended school in Santa Rosa.

The murder theory was strengthened today when the girls' father told authorities that some time ago he had had trouble with a ranch hand and that the man had threatened to kill the entire family. The man was said to have been seen in the vicinity recently.

MADRIGAL CLUB TO HAVE CONCERT ON JANUARY 19

Noted Artists to Take Part in Fine Program of Music

Because organizations that use the high school auditorium are no longer permitted to sell tickets at the door, the Madrigal club is selling subscription memberships, which entitle the holders to tickets for its two concerts. These subscriptions cost $2 and entitle the purchaser to two tickets for each concert.

The first concert will be in the high school the evening of Thursday, January 19. Mrs. Virginia Freeman will be the soprano soloist and Mrs. Dorothy Armstrong Welcome the violinist.

In conformity to its announced colonial concert, members will appear in the costumes of 1650 and four of the ladies will execute a minuet to the music of the chorus. Chorus numbers will be varied in character and calculated to show the excellent progress which has been made by this organization under the leadership of Mrs. C. A. Parker. Mrs. John Cotton is the president of the club, and Mrs. John Wright the accompanist.

Some time in May the second concert of the season will be given.

DENVER, Jan. 10.—Mrs. Henrietta B. Lindsey, wife of Juvenile Judge Ben B. Lindsey, won't get the job as assistant probation officer in Denver at a salary of $125 a month. The board of county commissioners today refused to approve her employment by her husband in this capacity.

Thumb-Twiddlers Get Attention Tonight in "The Listening Post".

Thumb-twiddlers. That's what James W. Foley calls them. And thumb-twiddling, a substitute for action. Mr. Foley says the thumb-twiddling mind needs a jolt and he proceeds to give that jolt in his able manner. You will be interested to read "The Listening Post" tonight.

Dr. Frank Crane has a word on "Training for Character," and says it is the training of the will. He also says this is beset with difficulty.

Henry James in his comments on the news of the day finds a lecturer speaking on the intelligence of women and putting a low estimate on such intelligence. This lecturer is advising young girls to marry men of 45, and Mr. James remarks that to young girls that age represents maturity.

You will find on the editorial page editorials on "One Hundred Per Cent American," "Undoing Many Wrongs," and others fully as interesting and timely.

There is always something of importance to be found on the editorial page—always something educational, inspiring and always something to make you think. We want you to read this page as a regular thing because it's worth it.

CURFEW LAW TO OPERATE THURSDAY

Minors Under Seventeen Will Have to Stay at Home

MUST BE IN BY 9:15

Hope to Curb Lawlessness by Youngsters in City

On Thursday night the curfew law will become effective in Glendale and all boys and girls under the age of 17 will have to be off the streets, out of public buildings and parks unless acccompanied by parents or guardians or unless they have a written permit signed by their parents or guardian to the effect that they have a reason for being on the street or unless they are employed at some task that requires them to be out at night.

The curfew law was authorized by the city council at the request of the chief of police who asked its adoption to assist him in curbing the alleged vice and misdemeanors among minors.

Glendale has had a curfew ordinance since November, 1908 but in recent years it has not been enforced. The old ordinance is even stricter than the one to be enforced now. The old law was that during the winter months all minors had to be off the streets by 7:30 p. m. and in the summer they were allowed until 8 o'clock.

Chief of Police Martin announces that he is willing to give the boys and girls an opportunity to attend picture shows and other entertainments and will make the ordinance allow until 9:15 p. m. After that hour officers are instruct to cite minors who are found on the street to appear at the chief's office. The second appearance in the chief's office will result in the offender being sent to Juvenile Hall.

BETTER SERVICE NOW PROMISED

P. E. Officials Here Today to Hear Various Complaints

A. A. Smith, general passenger agent of the Pacific Electric railway, was in Glendale this morning to confer with Mayor Robinson and City Manager Reeves regarding the proposed elimination of the stop at Los Feliz road and substitution by a stop at Eulalia street. Both the mayor and the city manager stated that they were against such action and after some discussion Mr. Smith agreed to continue to stop at Los Feliz road.

The matter of service on the Adams street bus line was discussed and Mr. Smith was asked if the Pacific Electric intended giving better service to patrons. He was told that if the railway company did not intend bettering this service it was more than a possibility that the city would revoke the permit to operate busses here.

Mayor Robinson explained that the bus is operating on an hourly schedule which fails to make connections with the street car line. He pointed out that it is not fair to the people who depend on that line for transportation to ask them to wait an hour.

Mr. Smith said the company intended putting on another bus at once and woud double the efficiency of the line. Thus the service will be reduced from an hourly schedule to a 30-minute schedule.

PERFECT RACE WAS VISUALIZED BY DR. W. H. BROWN

Believes He Has Plan to Make Future Sickness Nill

MANSFIELD, O., Jan. 10.—A perfect race was visualized today as Dr. W. H. Brown of the Child Health Demonstration league began work with this all-American town as a laboratory.

Dr. Brown, former city health officer of Bridgeport, Conn., and with the Rockefeller Foundation in France, started a five-year experiment with the Mansfield children to concert a recipe for all-American cities to copy in producing a perfect race. A fund of $200,000 has been provided for the work by the American Red Cross, American Child Hygiene association, Child Health Organization of America, Child Labor committee, National Tuberculosis association and National Organization for Public Health Nursing.

Dr. Brown began work on a program to use all known remedies to fight disease and conserve child life. The result, Dr. Brown believes, will be a formula to make future men and women perfect in health.

SOVIET RUSSIA ACCEPTED PLAN

Will Meet All Conditions Planned by Allied Powers

MOSCOW, Jan 8 (Delayed).—Soviet Russia has received and decided to accept an invitation from the allied supreme council to attend the economic conference proposed for Genoa in March. Conditions laid down by the allies for Russian participation in the conference, which is to seek the rehabilitation of Europe, will be met.

From information obtained in Soviet circles, it was learned that Lloyd George, confident of the success of his proposal to the Cannes conference, that Russia be invited to meet the allies this year, arranged in advance with Krassin, the Soviet's London representative, terms of the conditions that would be required. Recently they agreed to the following as a tentative basis for Russian participation in an international economic conference:

1.—Dejure recognition of the Soviet by the allies.

2.—The Moscow government shall assume the debts of previous Russian governments.

3.—Citizens of other countries who have lost their wealth through the Russian revolution shall be indemnified.

4.—The Soviet government will guarantee private property rights in Russia.

It was believed here the preliminary agreement concerning Russian participation at Genoa would recommend a loan by the allies to the Soviet government.

UNITED STATES IS WORLD CENTER OF FINANCE NOW

Banks Have Cash and Credit of Forty-eight Billions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—America is the unchallenged Goliath of the financial world, the annual report of D. R. Crissinger, comptroller of the currency, made public today, shows.

From a heavy debtor nation in 1914, she has emerged the greatest creditor nation in the world's history. Her banking power during the intervening seven years has increased nearly 85 per cent, and her 31,200 banks can marshal cash and credits estimated at more than $48,200,000,000.

Added to this is more than $1,500,000,000 in the banks of her island possessions, thus giving the United States a banking asset of nearly $50,000,000,000.

These startling governmental figures show clearly the important role the United States would play if it agreed to active participation in the world economic conference at Genoa next March.

Crissinger credits the federal reserve system with saving the United States from disaster during the last six years. The system acted as the "pneumatic cushion" during the period of deflation and reaction following the world-wide expansion of credits, Crissinger said.

Deflation of prices during the last year and a half tested the solvency of every bank in the land, he said. Report shows that 34 national banks went into the hands of receivers in the year ending October 31, 1921.

Crissinger recommended congressional action to limit re-discounting of bank paper as a means of extending credit. Abuse of this privilege is a constant menace to depositors and the stability of the financial structure, he said.

The stock of money in the United States was given as $8,027,395,496, which, if equally divided, would give every inhabitant of the country $53.44, the report stated. The per capita circulation in 1914 was $34.53.

MOVIE COLONY TO BE DRAGGED IN

Trial of Mrs. Levee Probably Involve People in State

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 10.—Mrs. Matilda D. Levee, charged with the murder of her husband, Frederick Levee, prominent Los Angeles attorney here, last May, was granted a continuance until March 13, when the case was called for trial in the criminal district court here today.

Illness of her directing counsel, William Boyd, of Cleveland, O., was said to be the reason for the postponement. The Los Angeles movie colony will probably come in for its share in the Levee case, when it was rumored today that several well-known movie actresses would be dragged in.

Mrs. Levee is well known in Cleveland, where she lived and worked as a court stenographer before meeting Frederick Levee, in Portland, Oregon.

CITY SEWER SYSTEM IS DISCUSSED

Council Hears Many Speakers on Disposal Plans

MEET ON THURSDAY

Special Committee Will Make Final Report Thursday Night

At a special meeting of the city council Monday night to confer with members of the sewerage committee in the matter of installation of a sewer system, the committee agreed that now is the time to install an adequate system. The committee notified the council that as no definite policy had been outlined, they were not ready to make a report and asked that they be given time to deliberate and that as many as possible who were interested in the sewer situation, meet in the council chamber at 4 p. m. on Thursday. The committee indicated that at this meeting a decision will no doubt be reached regarding the type of system to be installed and that a report will be ready for the council Thursday night.

Mr. Windom advised the council that he is in favor of a general outfall system and suggested the Los Angeles river for the outfall if possible, and permission to use the river could be secured. He upheld the city council in its action in installing a sewer system in the business district.

Mrs. M. L. Tight referred to the Los Angeles sewer problem. This matter, according to Mrs. Tight, will be discussed in court at an early date. She also called attention to the Hoyt system, which she has investigated.

A. W. Beach referred to his investigation of the various systems installed in Fullerton and of the subsequent necessity of installing general outfalls to the sea.

Dr. Brown informed the council that he favored the installation of a general sewer system, no matter what type, either the Imhoff, the Activated Sludge system, or the screening process. He stated that he is in favor of any sewer system the city decides to install.

G. W. Woodberry spoke regarding his sub-irrigation system and asked for an opportunity to install a unit for demonstration. He contended that the matter of sewage should be an asset to the city instead of a liability by using the affluent on land by sub-irrigation through the use of septic tanks. This matter was discussed by the council but no action taken.

Councilman Kimlin asked the committee if it would favor a system that would take care of 90 per cent of the city sewage by gravity flow. In answer to this query Mr. Vesper, said that the committee and the sub-committees had visited various systems and had come to the conclusion that Glendale needs a sewer system and that they will be ready for an answer at the next meeting.

Councilman Stephenson asked that the following questions be presented to the sewerage committee for disposal. These questions were ordered presented to the committee.

1.—Is it, in the opinion of the committee, a proper time to start proceedings to install a general sewerage system for the city?

2.—If a piece of ground could be found that would satisfactorily take care of from 80 to 90 per cent of the sewage of Glendale, same to be approved by the state board of health, would the committee recommend that this property be acquired by condemnation proceedings or otherwise and the people be asked to vote a bond issue to take care of such a system?

MRS. FRANK MAYO NOT TO GO EAST

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—No separation is imminent between Frank Mayo, the film actor, and his wife, formerly Miss Dagmar Godowsky, daughter of the eminent pianist, Leopold Godowsky.

"Such rumors," said the actor, "are mere gossip. Probably they grew out of the fact that two weeks ago my wife received an offer to play on the New York stage.

"Naturally, having been married barely two months, no husband would wish to be separated from his bride by 3,000 miles, or any other distance, for any length of time.

"Mrs. Mayo will not accept the stage offer. She wishes to remain with her husband," he said.

BRAND BLVD. ASSOCIATION TO ACT SOON

Enthusiasm Prevailed at Big Meeting Last Night

LOWER P. E. TRACK

Concrete Plans Are Presented to Bring About Improvements

An important meeting of the executive committee of the Brand Boulevard Improvement association was held last night in the office of Charles B. Guthrie, 103½ South Brand boulevard. Genuine enthusiasm for the improvement of Brand boulevard was manifest at the session. Members of the railway and transportation committee of the chamber of commerce, who were guests, were enthused over the prospects of making Brand boulevard a really modern and beautiful thoroughfare, with tracks down to grade.

Attorney Mattison B. Jones was appointed chairman of a joint committee, and Charles B. Guthrie was selected to take the place of Kemper Campbell.

The principal topic of discussion was the question of paving Brand boulevard between Colorado and the southern limits of the old city of Glendale, along with lowering the tracks of the Pacific Electric company all along Brand within the present limits of the city.

Looking toward the improvement of the roadway along Brand, a motion was made to the effect that a communication be sent to City Manager Reeves requesting him to instruct the city attorney to furnish the joint committee estimates of the cost of improving Brand from Colorado street south to the southern limits of the old city of Glendale. Estimates on two kinds of roadway are being asked for, these being as follows:

(1)—A five-inch concrete base with two-inch asphalt surface, such as exists between Colorado and Harvard, along with culverts, etc.

(2)—A five-inch concrete base with a wearing surface of oil screenings, such as exists from the southern limits of the old city to Glendale to the Southern Pacific tracks, these figures also to include culverts, etc.

After securing these figures it is the purpose of the combined committee to circulate them with

VALUABLE TREES IN WAY OF PROGRESS ARE UPROOTED

City Manager Offers Citizens Trees Now Being Removed

The rapid expansion of the city and improvement of frontage on Brand and other business thoroughfares is bringing about the removal of valuable trees—particularly palms—which have beautified the parkways.

The logical proposition would be for the city to remove and replant them in the city park or in vacant places in the parkways on residence streets, according to various citizens. Doing away with the Forestry department, however, has left the city without a branch of government to whom the matter could be referred and so, in a number of instances, beautiful large palm trees, which transplant well, especially at this season, have been thrown away.

City Manager Reeves agrees it is a lamentable economic waste and says that trees are to be removed in several places which he would be glad to donate to any citizen who will take and replant them.

Because of inability to be present at the meetings, Mrs. Wilcox tendered her resignation as secretary and Mrs. G. H. Rowe was appointed in her stead. Mrs. Charles Hutchinson, president of the club, was a very welcome guest.

In response to quite an urgent demand, the section voted to ask Mrs. Frank Ayers to repeat the review she gave of "The Americanization of Edward Bok."

After the regular session Miss Helen Rosenburg, grand-daughter of the curator, and her friend Jane Williams, gave some very pretty fancy dances.

During the social hour which followed, refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next section meeting will be held January 23 with Mrs. Dalrymple, 219½ Hawthorne street.

MRS. D'AGNOSTINI IS NOW ON TRIAL

Charged With Killing of Arnold Postel Last August

OAKLAND, Jan. 10. — Mrs. Jesusita D'Agnostini is on trial in the superior court here charged with the murder of Arnold Postel who was shot and killed in the hallway of the Postel building in Alameda, August 31.

"Insane grief" will be the defense, according to E. D. Spagnoli, attorney for Mrs. D'Agnostini. The defense claims Mrs. D'Agnostini was broken with grief over the death of her husband and became mad with rage when Postel was alleged to have insulted her. This is the second time she has been tried for murder, the first time having been several years ago when she was accused of having killed her husband.

Admiral Sir Guy Gaunt said at a dinner in New York: "American hotels are good, amazingly good, but in the remoter districts, there's a lack of ceremony about them which I for one rather enjoy. I know a pompous Englishman who arrived at one of these hotels by auto. He strode up to the desk and asked for a room. 'I am Lord Caravan,' he said.

"'All right, lord,' said the clerk genially. 'Room 327. Three flights up turn to the right, fourth door on the left hand side.'

"But the Englishman thumped his heavy traveling bag on the counter and said coldly and significantly: 'I am the Earl of Caravan.'

"'Well,' said the clerk, with a puzzled smile, 'what do you expect me to do—kiss ye?'"

RAILWAY HEAD EXTENDS HOURS

C. E. Spencer, an attorney of Eagle Rock, acting for the chamber of commerce, wrote a short time ago to Manager Kurtz of the Los Angeles Railway Co., asking if it is true that hereafter Eagle Rock tickets can be purchased only in the new offices at Eleventh and Broadway, and at hours between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. He pointed out that few working people would be able to get their commutation books with such an arrangement, and inquired if it would not be possible still to obtain them at the electric railway station; also, if the company would allow some responsible person in Eagle Rock to sell them at a central location, for a small percentage, as a great convenience to the many residents who use the car line daily. Mr. Kurtz replied that no more tickets would be sold at the Pacific Electric station, and at the present time their sale by an outside party would not be considered, but the time would be extended from 5 to 6 o'clock at Eleventh and Broadway, and longer should it be found necessary to do so. The change of offices is very inconvenient for patrons of this line.

NEW STATION

Another gasoline station has been opened in Eagle Rock, at 338 West Colorado boulevard, and is an unusually attractive structure of its kind. It was opened on New Year's day and each customer was given a gallon of oil. The proprietors mend tires, repair batteries, and vulcanize, in addition to the oil service.

People who talk too much seldom talk well.

MILDRED WIGHT HOSTESS AT PARTY

Miss Mildred Wight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Wight of North Peyton avenue, who graduated from the University of California last June with honors, recently invited 50 members of the Sigma Kappa sorority of the university to a luncheon at the Ambassador. The guests, on seating themselves at the tables, found a corsage bouquet of violets at each plate, and hidden in the fragrant flowers was a scroll bearing the happy announcement of their hostess's engagement. Roy H. Cole of Whittier is the lucky young man and the wedding will take place next summer, after Miss Wight has finished her year of teaching at Somis, in Ventura county.

The day after the luncheon she gave an afternoon party at her home to friends of her mother. When all had arrived, she began to play a wedding march on the piano and her little niece, Fannie G. Wight, came down the stairs dressed as a bride, with veil, wreath, and bouquet. Standing in the center of the living room, the child recited an original rhyme in which the announcement was incorporated. A neighbor's little daughter, Mary Ellen Bolton, recited James Whitcomb Riley's "Raggedy Man" and "Little Orphan Annie," and Miss Ethel Congdon, president of the Thursday Morning Music club, sang Carrie Jacob Bond's "I Love You Truly," and "Shadows," after which refreshments were served. Those present were: Mmes. Ruth D. Darsie, Walter Brown, A. D. Crow, G. N. Sprague, Kurfess, C. C. Miller, Jesse Miller, Carl Miller, H. I. Cruzan, W. A. Feaster, Tom Bellringer, G. G. Congdon, Joseph Cole, L. Partridge, J. C. Wight, C. J. Murfield, H. H. Wood, E. H. Wight, Geo. F. Fetters, Enz, Digby, Fisher, Bolton, J. A. Morrow, A. W. Lawrence, C. E. Slaght, and Miss Ethel Congdon, Miss Kauffman, and Miss Mary Kauffman.

MRS. BALL HOSTESS

Gaily decorated with Japanese lanterns without and poinsettias within, the home of Mrs. Carrie Ball, 207 East Adams avenue, was hospitality opened last Saturday evening, for the card party given by Mrs. Arthur Thielen and Miss Mary Coffey, for the benefit of the Catholic building fund. Those present enjoyed themselves so well that it was midnight before any move was made to depart. Prizes for high scores were won by Mrs. Harley Davis and J. T. Byrnes. The consolation gifts went to Mrs. Ruby Clark and J. Butts of Los Angeles. Delicious refreshments were served.

SERMON THEME IS OF GREAT INTEREST

The theme of Dr. John Hedley's sermon Sunday evening, in the Methodist church, was "The Land of Beginning Again." "I wish there were some wonderful place," he began, "some land of beginning again, where mistakes could be rectified and the unsatisfactory past lived over again. I fancy this is a universal desire, perhaps the origin of New Year feelings and observances. We are all sentimental." He proceeded to tell of an old Scotch custom still prevalent in that country and the north of England, called "first footing." The women of every household were very particular as to what man should first step over their threshold on New Year's. He must be a dark man and put a coal on the fire. Often the matter was arranged beforehand, to make such of good luck throughout the year. Then he described the New Year customs in China, where he lived for years, the payment of debts, etc. "What was the idea?" he queried. "The opportunity to begin again. It is a gospel truth that every man who wants to begin again can do so. The text, "Ye must be born again," means that man must make a new beginning. Again, 'Except ye become as little children, ye cannot enter the kingdom of heaven." That means I can cease being the man I am and become the man I want to be. "Wherefore if any man be in Christ, he is new created." John's vision, as told in Revelations, was of a man sitting on a throne, who said "Behold, I make all things new. Therefore, I believe in the land of beginning again."

Concrete examples were given in the misdeeds and repentances of Jacob, David, Peter, and the Prodigal Son, who were forgiven and regenerated. "We know there is mercy for every penitent man that lives," the pastor continued, "and that there is not a sinful man anywhere whom God can not save through Jesus. To any wrong-doer I say, get up, go to your Father, and He will forgive. Where sin abounded, grace doth much more abound. You can begin again, but you can never again begin at the beginning, not even by the grace of God. Yet waste no tears on the record of past years, but turn to the new existence on the leaves of whose book you can write the record of a clean life when you begin with Jesus."

RICKENBACKER SPEAKS ON PLANES

Says They Are the Hope of Civilization if Used Right

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Airplanes—which are not being restricted by the arms conference—will wage the next war, Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, America's ace of aces, declared today. The dreadnaughts of the sky will hurl death by gas bombs on defenseless men, women and children.

"Nevertheless, I believe the Washington arms conference is right in not restricting airplanes," Rickenbacker said in an interview given the United Press.

"Besides being the devil of war, the airplane is the angel of peace," in the opinion of the sky fighter, who brought down more Germans than any other American flyer.

"Undoubtedly the next war will be a war in the air—if there is another war. It will be a 'mechanical-chemical' war. Airplanes armed with deadly gas bombs will steal over cities and the innocent will suffer suffocation hurled from the air.

"Yet, restrict aeronautics and you restrict civilization. Civilization rotates on transportation. Mankind is cluttering this planet. Increased rapidity of transportation is needed to keep mankind alive. The airplane gives this necessary speed. It is not limited to one level—it travels on a thousand levels.

"Nations and continents will be united as never before by the airplane. In 20 years Japan will be only 24 hours distant from the United States."

NEWBERRY FATE TO BE SETTLED

Few Senators Hold His Future in Their Action on Vote

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Senator Newberry's fate is to be decided today in an informal conference of half a dozen republican senators. They were to discuss this question:

"Did Newberry's defense to the senate yesterday adequately answer the charge that his seat was virtually bought by the lavish use of money in his campaign?"

The group that met today included Willis, Ohio; McNary, Oregon; Capper, Kansas, and several other "wavering" republicans. They recently sent word to administration leaders that unless Newberry spoke in his own defense they would vote to unseat him. These senators have the decisive votes—they and George Wharton Pepper, the new senator from Pennsylvania, who was to be sworn in today to succeed Senator Penrose.

"FAIR AND COLDER" BUT HEALTHY

"Come on in," said Miss Ida Schnall to the photographer, but he stayed put. We don't blame him for not following her advice, for the water is quite chilly these mornings. Miss Schnall is a snowbird, that is she just delights in taking a dip in the ocean or running around the snow-covered sands at Brighton Beach. She says that it makes one healthy, and we replied, "Who wants to be healthy?"

News From the States

COLORADO

Denver—Construction of a new mission for Jim Goodheart, together with a chain of missions throughout the country, is the plan of Col. E. A. Humphreys, Denver multi-millionaire and oil man.

The idea came to Col. Humphreys, after serious illness in 1918, of creating an enormous mission foundation. One of this chain is to be a rescue mission in Denver, the largest and most efficient in the west. The mother mission is now located in Charleston, W. Va., now operating with a chapel that seats 600 people, has a Sunday school roster of 300 children, and requires the services of 18 persons.

Similar institutions are now located in Evanston, Ill.; Columbus, Canton and Akron, Ohio; Wheeling, Parkersburg and Huntington, W. Va. They are to be followed by scores of others, many including free clinic and women's and children's hospitals.

Denver—Each of the 50 employes of the Producers' Dairy association this year received $1000 as a Christmas gift from the president of the company, Storrs H. Hall. Policies were presented to the men last Saturday morning. Premiums are paid by the company as long as employes remain with the association. The insurance was taken out with the Equitable Life Insurance society.

ALABAMA

Montgomery— The Merchants' bank here suspended business and the affairs of the institution were placed in the hands of H. H. Montgomery, superintendent of the state banking department. Directors of the bank issued a statement declaring the action was decided upon "to protect the interests of depositors." The bank is capitalized at $100,000.

Birmingham—W. N. Knox, state law enforcement officer, was sentenced to 30 days on the public roads and fined $500 for assaulting Phil Bainter, a Birmingham newspaper man, in a decision by the state court of appeals, which affirmed the judgment of the trial court.

MISSOURI

St. Louis—The United States circuit court of appeals confirmed the order of District Judge Lewis of Denver, granting the Denver Tramway company an injunction against the city and county of Denver and permitting the company to establish an 8-cent maximum fare instead of a 6-cent fare.

The company is in the hands of a receiver. The court held that a franchise ordinance, which provides for a maximum 6-cent fare, was not in the form of a contract and if there was a contract it would be void because of lack of mutuality.

OHIO

Youngstown — Notice of a "breath inspector" to be appointed for the police force, inserted in the police roll call as a joke, was haled as a good idea by Mayor-elect George L. Oles, who said today that he would put it into force when he assumes office. The notice said that the "breath inspector" would sniff at all policemen every four hours, and that scent of cloves, wintergreen or peppermint would put a black mark on the record of the offending officer.

ILLINOIS

Chicago—The report of the Chicago public library, published by Librarian C. B. Roden for eleven months of 1921, shows a decrease in circulation from the preceding year of 180,000 volumes.

This is considered a record, however, as 16 branches out of 45 were closed, 147 persons dropped from the staff and $242,000 deducted from the appropriation for the year. During the 12 months of 1920 there were 7,651,328 books circulated, and during the 11 months of 1921 covered by the report there were 7,477,887.

Chicago — Industrial circles in the Calumet district are interested in the report that an eastern steel company is negotiating for acreage on the Indiana Harbor canal.

Albert Dewolf Erskine, Chicago realty operator, has secured options on 1000 acres owned by the East Chicago company and the Schlessinger estate of Milwaukee, lying in the path and having an outlet to the proposed new Indiana harbor. The option on the land expires January 31 and there is much secrecy about the proposed deal.

Chicago—Reports received from 172 local cooperative live stock shipping associations of the state by the Illinois Agricultural association indicate that the cooperative live stock shipping business of Illinois has been more than doubled since November, 1920, the association says in a statement issued.

The 172 associations reported that 443 cars of stock had been shipped in November, 1920, as compared to 957 cars in the same month in 1921.

There were 26,922 head of stock shipped November of last year, according to the reports, as against 72,593 head in November, 1921. The receipts from last year's November stock were $652,670.43 and from stock shipped in November of this year, $1,363,650.46.

MISSOURI

Kansas City—No more children will be received at the Evans Children's home until the board of trustees is satisfied that they can be cared for properly. This order was given by Mrs. W. Y. Hill. The action resulted from the death of two of the children from malnutrition after they had been removed to the General hospital.

NEW MEXICO

Santa Fe—Eleutherio Corral, 16, and Rumaldo, 17, will be hanged at Silver City on January 20 unless the governor commutes their sentences. The supreme court, which recently affirmed their conviction of first degree murder for killing Venturo Bencomo, jailer at the Grant county jail, fixed the date for the execution. The youths were foiled in a plot to escape when their sentence was affirmed, files and hacksaws being found in their cells.

NEW YORK

New York—A good beggar can clear from $25 to $50 a day in New York, Como De Cambia told Magistrate Frothingham when arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct. Detectives, who said De Cambia lost a leg in an accident, had more than $35 in his pocket when he was arrested in a subway entrance.

New York—The Greeters of New York, an organization composed of clerks, assistant managers and managers of local hotels, have purchased from George P. Clark the four-story dwelling, 22 by 100, at 68 West Sixty-eighth street, which will be converted into a clubhouse. The reported price was $35,000, of which $10,000 was paid in cash. The remainder is covered by mortgage, which in turn is guaranteed by a bond issue subscribed to by the members of the club. Coughlin & Clisby negotiated the deal.

Dr. Russell Named — At the meeting of the city council on Monday night, Dr. Jessie Russell was appointed to represent this city, with City Engineer Hill, at the meeting of the county planning commission, to be held at an early date.

Mr. and Mrs. Mort Woodbury of East Orange Grove avenue entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Harshman and family of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harshman of Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Hoover and family. After the very delicious dinner had been served an enjoyable evening was spent in dancing and musical numbers.

Chickens that have come home to roost have more sense than some men.

DUMMY EDITORS TO DO JAIL DUTY

Gets Paid for Serving Various and Sundry Terms in Hoosegow

TOKYO (By Mail).—The "dummy editor" is one of the handiest things around a Japanese newspaper office. His job is simple enough. It is merely to go to jail whenever necessary.

On dull days, the "dummy editor" has nothing at all to do except sit around the shop and twiddle his thumbs. But when business is brisk and the cops come in and pinch the place for having printed forbidden material, he puts on his frock coat and climbs into the hoodlum-wagon and spends a week or so in the calaboose earning his salary.

That's one of the ways of maintaining the freedom of the press.

Another is to print anything you choose and trust to Budda and the police. The latter is growing in favor and a good number of newspapers are breaking away from the one-universal "dummy editor" plan.

Japanese newspapers are subject at all times to orders from the government forbidding the mention or discussion of specified subjects. For instance, there has been a ban for some time against mention of or speculation regarding the health of the emperor. Any edition containing an offending article may be suppressed. Police come to the office, sieze all the copies of that issue they can find, scurry about town confiscating the copies at newsstands and in the possession of newsboys, and all copies in the postoffice. Usually they let it go at that, only the one offending issue is suppressed and the paper is allowed to continue its business the next day.

One angle of the Japanese libel law is to the effect that whenever a citizen challenges the truth of a newspaper story concerning him and complains that it has damaged his business or character, the newspaper must print in its next issue a denial of length and position equalling the original. This is supposed to vindicate the irate citizen and remove cause for libel suit.

Here's the joker. The law provides that while the correction must be of "equal length" to the article complained of, if it is any longer the newspaper can collect full advertising rates for the excess wordage.

Thus, the "Evening Agitator," springs a neat little yarn that our esteemed fellow-townsman, Mr. T. Toga robbed the treasury of a Shinto Shrine yesterday at three p. m.

Mr. T. Toga denies indignantly that he did any such thing, threatens suit and demands retraction.

The next day the "Evening Agitator" plays up an item, same page and position say that Mr. T. Toga did not rob the treasury of a Shinto Shrine yesterday at three p. m.

The retraction is two words longer than the original story, so the "Evening Agitator" collects from Mr. T. Toga, at full display, preferred position advertising rates, payment for the two words, "did not."

PLENARY SESSION WILL BE FRIDAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A plenary session of the arms conference is expected Friday to announce to the world the powers' acceptance of the naval limitation treaty. Signatures of delegates of the United States, Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy, the five powers involved in the treaty, will be affixed Saturday, according to present plans. Arthur J. Balfour, head of the British delegation, has postponed his departure to participate in the announcement and the signing of the treaty.

GRAND VIEW GETS BURDEN OF SOIL

Recent Storms Make Some Streets Dangerous for Traffic

While every drop of the rain that has fallen in this district, is worth hundreds of dollars, not everybody can cash in. The city administration says it has to cash out in consequence of the precipitation.

Fourth and Sixth streets in the Grand View district were made practically unsafe for travel by the sand and gravel washed down from the canyons above, and the city has removed tons and tons of earth deposited there without getting to the end of the job. The city will keep at it with all forces available and it hopes the public will be patient. The source of the trouble is in upper territory within county jurisdiction and the city hopes to get the county flood control to take hold of the proposition and build check dams or otherwise correct the trouble before another winter season is upon us.

BOY SLAYER TELLS WHY HE KILLED

Tells Officers He Was Not Afraid to Shoot Cabral

MARTINEZ, Calif., Jan. 10.—Although Harry Heuer, aged 17, Richmond high school student, has made an alleged confession of the murder of Manuel Cabral, authorities today indicated they had not completed their investigation of the case. They had reason to believe, it became known, that some one else might be implicated.

Heuer, not in any way unnerved, and apparently not disturbed by the prospects of facing trial for his own life, reiterated his story today to a stenographer who was preparing a formal confession which he will be asked to sign.

He declared, according to officers, that he shot Cabral not because of infatuation for Cabral's wife, but because Cabral referred to him in an insulting manner.

"I hid under the Cabral house last Friday night," he was quoted as saying, "and I heard Mrs. Cabral tell her husband to go downtown and get a loaf of bread. I followed him and faked holding him up."

Cabral was shot three times and died as he reached his home.

Heuer then returned to his own home—a shack where he lived alone, and removed and threw away his mud-spattered shoes.

"No, I was not afraid to shoot a man, but I was a little nervous for fear I would meet someone after I did the shooting," he was said to have told the officers.

After throwing away his shoes he cleaned his gun with a woman's veil which he had used for a mask, according to the story, and then burned the veil.

Next he dug a knot from the board in the wall of his shack, placed the unfired cartridges in the hole, and replaced the knot. Officers said they found the cartridges in this unique cache.

Heuer's parents reside at Knightsen, Calif. Officers were amazed at the youth's nerve.

OFFICIALS WILL DISCUSS INSANITY

Defense on Grounds of Insanity Will Be Poor Harbor in Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 10.—The disposition of alleged murderers to put forth an "insanity defense" as a means of obtaining liberty when confronted with an apparently impenetrable web of circumstantial evidence, has resulted in that form of criminal refuge being chosen as one of the leading topics of discussion when district attorneys of Oregon meet here in convention on January 26 and 27.

Francis V. Galloway of The Dalles, Ore., president of the district attorneys association, made this announcement last week. Dr. W. T. Williamson, prominent alienist, has been delegated by the Oregon State Medical society to prepare a paper upon the subject of the insanity plea.

Galloway indicated that this discussion may culminate in framing a statute aimed to make more certain the confinement of a dangerous maniac who has escaped penalties because of an insanity plea.

A verdict of acquittal on the grounds of insanity now automatically sentences the defendant to a state institution, but does not provide for his disposal should an examination at a future lucid moment discover his mentality to have returned "to normal."

MEANEST THIEF IS IN MONROVIA

MONROVIA, Cal., Jan. 10.—Add one more to the list of meanest thieves. He lives in Monrovia. On Christmas eve Mrs. Mary Wait, an aged, poor, and lonely woman whose husband is in the poorhouse, received a basket of Christmas cheer donated by local churches. She put the basket away and went to see the kiddies made happy at the municipal Christmas tree. While she was gone the "meanest thief," who had evidently seen her hide it, broke into her little house and stole it.

SUB-DIVISION TO BE OPENED SOON

Arthur Holgate to Seek Desires of Prospective Owners

A tract of special advantages has been placed on the market by Arthur L. Holgate. It contains seven acres and is located on San Fernando road and Sonora street. The advantages, which are not to be had in every subdivision, are the fact that it has a boulevard frontage while the rear of the tract lies along the railroad. Mr. Holgate is undecided just how he will handle it. He says he is waiting to get some expression from the people as to what they want. He would like to place about three industrial plants on it, but he also has a plan for making thirty 25-foot lots on the boulevard with a depth of 120 feet to a 30-foot alley, and the remainder of the tract he would hold for manufacturing concerns. A deep well with engine power furnishes a four-inch stream of water and is said to have never been pumped dry. It has in the past been used for irrigation and would now be an asset to a concern requiring a quantity of water.
Mr. Holgate has also recently acquired the southeast corner of Tujunga avenue and San Fernando boulevard. He has nearly 100 feet facing Tujunga avenue, which constitutes an excellent apartment site.

SECURES CONTRACT MUCH NEW WORK

F. C. Butterfield, 1246 East California, has secured the contract for 21 cesspools and seven septic tanks in the new sewer system now being put in by the city in the business district. Mr. Butterfield is a local man, having lived in Glendale for the past 12 years, and has been in the plumbing business for over a year. Mr. Butterfield has his contract well under way and is doing a good job.

PLUMBER BUSY

W. E. Clark, successor to William T. Ashton, East Broadway, reports work unusually heavy in the plumbing line. Besides his big run of work in Glendale and Eagle Rock he has the contract to do the plumbing on 20 houses in Los Angeles. He secured the Los Angeles work through Mr. Whippert, who is superintendent for the Los Angeles concern, and resides in Glendale.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.
Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair, after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.—Adv.

Truths in Epigram

Property has its duties as well as its rights.—Disraeli (1804-1881).

One thorn of experience is worth a whole wilderness of warning.—Lowell (1819-1891).

The world's great men have not commonly been great scholars, nor its great scholars great men.—Holmes (1809-1894).

ONE HUNDRED PER CENT AMERICAN

John Haynes Holmes, one of the editors of Unity, presents, in the form of a medical report, an article on "100 Per Cent Americanism." The copy of the paper in which this appears was sent to the office by one of the class known as parlor bolshevists. Notwithstanding the handicap constituted of its source, there is much in the paper of sane utility and worth. Even the article under consideration, prejudiced, bitter; in same respects based upon absurd hypotheses, is not without value. At least it throws light on the character of the communist.

Haynes begins by classing "100 per cent Americanism" as a dangerous form of disease, a pestilence. He discerns in civic federations, American Legions, and kuklux klans, some of the symptoms of the malady. In other words, he starts by insulting a considerable portion of the citizenry, by maligning the soldiers, and by placing on a plane with decent and useful folk, an organization wholly un-American, virtually outlawed, and already falling into decay.

Taken seriously, such preachment would be irritating. But why take it seriously? The same sentiment, less well framed, may be caught as it is hurled from the unbrushed teeth that the soapbox orator uses in hissing venom upon the world in general. The venom is all present in the Holmes dissertation, only it is not hissed. The writer evidently is too courteous to hiss. He merely slanders, distorts, bears false witness, and things like that. His suavity is not to be impeached; nothing is to be impeached but his intelligence or his sincerity, or his motive.

He mentions another symptom as "a peculiarly ugly form of intolerance."

While this may not be just, it is easy to see the basis of it. There are people who are intolerant. It is unfortunate that this should be so, for as likely as not they are intolerant of opinions as sound as their own, and of purposes as lofty. Personally, Holmes hardly could have ground for complaint. He is tolerated. Even in drawing attention to his malformation of information, the course is actuated by kindness tinged with pity. The poor, scolding gentleman perhaps believes in himself, and so believing, is unable to believe in Americanism.

In closing, Holmes says "To be remembered always is the truth that men are at bottom sound."

They really are. It is for this reason they are able to read without harm the screed of Holmes. Here and there in the mass of illogical deduction, the misinterpretation of fact, they may discern something worth picking out of the muck.

UNDOING MANY WRONGS

Japan, acting independently, and for the most part in secret, has managed to enmesh China. The entwining bonds will be loosed as one result of the new compact. The powers that have entered into a treaty to which Japan is signatory, have had much revealed to them.

Whether Japan comes into the agreement in absolute good faith is less important than at first glance it might be deemed. The great fact is that Japan is in, and that its entry obligates it to act in concert with the greater powers. The greater powers will see that the obligation is kept. This is not to imply that violence or open coercion will be necessary at all. That Japan would not dare violate its pledges is the definite and inescapable fact.

There is not the economic necessity for Japan to expand that the Japanese have sought to make appear. That country is quite capable of sustaining itself. The simple food to which the natives are accustomed, and with which they are content, they have no difficulty in producing in abundance. The new treaty protects Japan in its rights. It offers no protection as to assumed rights that involve aggression. Japan wins no license to hurry China. On the other hand, expressions of friendliness for China, and concern for its welfare, have marked the entire proceedings of the conference.

The old diplomacy as fixing terms of international relationship is dead. The ancient trickeries have become taboo. There will be no more, for example, of such pretense as that of which Japan was guilty, when it sought to win Shantung as a reward for inducing China to break with Germany, a task represented to be difficult. In fact, China already had broken with Germany at the time of these negotiations, and Japan knew it.

The Oriental will be educated by association. He has been received formally and cordially into the family of nations gathered about the table, and he will not forget his manners.

THE WAY TOWARDS PEACE

Greater success almost than had been hoped for, has marked the disarmament conference. The greatest step ever taken for abolition of war has been accomplished. There are those who speak still of "entangling alliances." They speak with the voices of folly. Their inspiration is hatred, and the desire for discord. Perhaps there are some who think that the impossible has been undertaken. They see the task being done, and their senses do not comprehend. They gape in amazement, drooling words.

When the nations of the earth agree to cut down their navies; when they unite in limiting the field of the submarine so as to bar piracy; when they are about to denounce and reject the use of poison gases, then is the problem of war being solved.

With the equipment remaining to each, all will be competent for self defense, for policing the seas. Safety is assured because the only powers capable of dangerous aggression are solemnly pledged to refrain from aggression. There is established a definite community of interest. The way is opened for adjudication of disputes by methods wholly amicable.

The conference has been a great triumph for America. The outcome was the world's expression of confidence in the good faith of this country.

THE LONELY HUMAN SOUL

The late Senator Penrose was laid to rest in the absence of all ostentation. There was no gathering of friends. There were no floral tributes or parades. With only members of the family about, the body was carried to the grave, and when the earth closed over it, no others beheld the finale.

All this had been in accord with the wishes of Senator Penrose. With a strange fixity he had dreaded death. He held a superstitious fear lest he should be buried while yet there was a lingering thrill of life in his frame. He left instructions that this remote possibility be thwarted. It was singular that a strong man, and scholarly, a man of long experience, should have been the victim of such depressing and unwarranted beliefs.

It was Kipling who wrote "the human soul is a very lonely thing," his reference being to the soul about to pass. Many who have been down to the very gates, and then brought back as by a miracle, realize the truth of Kipling's averment. Not only is the soul lonely then, but it is unafraid. It has no impulse urging it to linger; it is without desire to go on, as it is without terror of going. And in its loneliness, it is sacred. The last expressed wish of the one whom death claims, becomes a command which affection hastens to obey.

The body of Senator Penrose might have been attended in its last journey by every evidence of mourning, and with all the visible honors of pomp. The senator had not desired that it should be so. It followed that the lack of ceremony was the most fitting end.

Bandits attempted to rob a Los Angeles policeman, who shot, fatally wounding one of them, who turned out to be a boy of seventeen. Such an episode is sad, of course. To be killed in the act of committing crime is a sorry ending. Nevertheless, the streets must be cleared of bandits, and the lad who has started out to be one is lucky to be killed at his first venture.

That the fact that Hearst papers bitterly oppose the course of the disarmament conference, is a strong argument in favor of its purpose and methods, may be submitted without argument. The same papers are remembered as having opposed the United States in its war against Germany.

There is an intimation that de Valera may come to the United States to live. If he were to do this, it is to be hoped that he will not regard American territory as a mere haven in the shelter of which to foment disturbance. An embarrassing number of his adherents seems to have some such idea.

TRAINING FOR CHARACTER

By DR. FRANK CRANE

In training for Character, the most important element is the training of the Will.

And this is beset with infinite difficulty because it is doubtful whether there is such a thing at all as the direct Training of the Will.

And all development of will power, curing of weak wills, or however the problem may be stated, depends upon indirection.

The reason of this is that nobody knows what the Will is, how to get at it, or how to find the source of it. For Will lies back of the consciousness, back of the desires; so far back, indeed, in the dark mystery of personality, that it is almost as much a matter of faith as God.

Also what we call Will is probably no more nor less than the functioning of the whole personality.

Intellectually you express yourself in thought. Artistically you express yourself in deeds. But most deeply and dynamically you express yourself in Will.

And to reach the battery from whence flows your will power you have to probe more deeply into the human mind than any scientific gentleman has so far gone.

Indirectly, however, we can undoubtedly train the Will if we catch the subject young enough.

Everything should be done to make the child desire self-mastery above all things.

The endurance of unpleasant things should be encouraged. He should be rewarded for preseverance. He should be made to feel that you dislike and disapprove of all softness and yielding. In other words, he should develop by all known means his willingness to deny himself a present pleasure for a future one, and a bodily comfort for a spiritual advantage.

Habits of self-denial should be formed and the pleasures arising from these habits pointed out. We do bodily exercises to keep our muscles supple; why should we not do spiritual exercises to keep our wills supple?

William James said that a man ought to do at least two things every day that he hates, just for practice.

The essence of will power is the ability to set one's self in opposition to desire. It is more than that. For it is the conviction that in so doing we shall get the gratification of a better desire; that is, obtain more happiness.

Stated another way, it is that we must learn to like resisting what we want to do. And to acquire it we must believe that in the long run we get more fun out of this resistance than we do out of yielding.

The secret of a strong character is that one is above his pleasures and superior to his pains. For such a man strong appetites do not render him miserable; they only lend more zest to his victory.

Strong Will is really mule power. It means that we have developed a tremendous moral obstinacy.

If we can see this and see the vital influence that a disposing Will has upon our character, we shall be much better qualified properly to train our children.

AT THE LISTENING POST

Thumb-twiddlers.
You have heard of them.
Perhaps you have seen one.
And it may be at some time or other you have been one.

* * *

Thumb-twiddling is a simple enough thing.
You merely lock the fingers together and then revolve one thumb about the other.
Rapidly or slowly as you choose.
The result is the same.

* * *

Thumb-twiddling is a substitute for action.
It seems to comfort the uncertain and irresolute mind.
By a pretense of action.
For that is what makes the mind uncertain and troubled and irresolute.
Lack of action.

* * *

So somebody sometime somewhere invented thumb-twiddling.
As people sometimes offer substitutes for well-known commodities.
Claiming them to be "equally as good."
And the first thumb-twiddler doubtless would have claimed his occupation was a substitute for work.
And, of course, there is nothing equally as good as work.
Workers are never thumb-twiddlers.

* * *

The thumb-twiddlers never do anything.
Except twiddle.
They have gotten in the circular way of thinking.
Beginning every day and thinking about in a circle and finishing just where they began.
Which is nowhere.

* * *

And until the habit of thumb-twiddling is broken, the twiddlers begin nowhere and get nowhere.
Nobody ever got anywhere watching his thumbs move in a circle about each other.
Twiddle, twiddle, twiddle!
I will, I can't, I will, I can't, I will, I can't!

* * *

Resolutions made one minute and unmade the next.
Resolution one minute and irresolution the next.
I think, I don't think, I think, I don't think, I think, I don't think.
It is, it is not, it is, it is not, it is, it is not!
Always about in a circle.
Always beginning and ending at the same place.

* * *

As with a man lost in a forest.
He has no compass.
He has no knowledge of direction.
And so he moves about in a circle.
And until he breaks the circle he remains lost in the forest.
Never getting anywhere outside of the circle in which he is moving.

* * *

If he breaks the circle and strikes off in a definite direction, he will eventually come out of the woods.
He may emerge into a swamp.
Or a quagmire.
Or a morass.

* * *

But there is a chance for him to get out of that.
At least, he is out of the woods.
He can see the sun shining.
And find a path that leads somewhere.
He is no longer, thumb-twiddling about in a circle.

* * *

It is better to do most anything than to twiddle thumbs.
All men who have achieved have made mistakes.
The thumb-twiddler makes no mistakes.
There is only one method of thumb-twiddling and you can't make a mistake about it.
But it is better to do something where mistakes are possible.

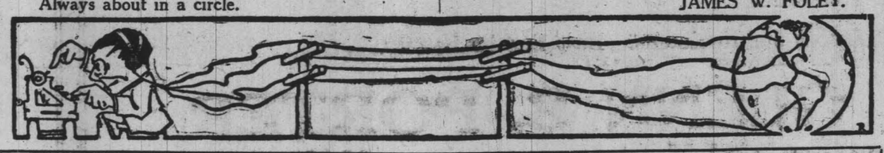
* * *

You can correct a mistake.
And you can do better.
But there is nothing a thumb-twiddler does that needs correction.
Except the habit.
It has not even the merit of whittling.
Because whittling gets somewhere.
But thumb-twiddling gets nowhere.

* * *

The thumb-twiddling mind needs a jolt.
It needs to be agitated out of itself.
It needs to be made to move in some definite direction.
And there are a good many thumb-twiddling minds in the world.
I can, I can't, I will, I won't, it is, it is not, I think, I don't think, it is, it is not, I will, I won't, I can, I can't.
Finishing, as you see, right where it began.

JAMES W. FOLEY.



SONGS OF THE POETS

Parting—By Gerald Massey (1828-1907)

Too fair, I may not call thee mine:
Too dear, I may not see
Those eyes with bridal beacons shine;
Yet, Darling, keep for me—
Empty and hushed, and safe apart,—
One little corner of thy heart.

Thou wilt be happy, dear! and bless
Thee: happy mayst thou be.
I would not make thy pleasure less;
Yet, Darling, keep for me—
My life to light, my lot to leaven,—
One little corner of thy Heaven.

Good-by, dear heart! I go to dwell
A weary way from thee;
Our first kiss is our last farewell;
Yet, Darling, keep for me—
Who wander outside in the night,—
One little corner of thy light.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

NOT AN IMITATIVE AMERICA

[Chicago Daily News]

It is heartily to be hoped that the imitative period of American life is drawing to a close. In a recent diary of travels in America by a distinguished English woman the remark is made that a certain American literary man was the most "European" person the writer of the diary had met in this country. Intended as a compliment, this remarw is perhaps not regarded by its victim as quite so complimentary as in former days in certain American literary circles it might have been.

Europeanness as Europeanness—a certain cut of coat because that cut is worn in London—a certain sequence of courses at dinner because that sequence is practiced in Paris—an accent admirable because imported—such provincialities are perhaps declining among us. An American elder statesman remarked the other day that now there were fewer Americans than in his youth who could be defined as Anglomaniacs or Gallomaniacs. Along with the evil features or a certain excessive Americanism among us, there has perhaps come also a certain strengthening of a simply self-respecting Americanism which sees no reason why (for instance) if certain words are pronounced in certain ways in England it necessarily follows that the American ways of pronouncing them are less desirable.

The imitation which the English really most especialy deserve is an imitation of their quite extraordinary capacity for being themselves. They dress as they wish to dress; and if the world wants to copy, let it copy. They pronounce as they wish to pronounce; and if in the case of certain words the pronunciations now used in England are different from the pronunciations which were formerly used in England and which are still commonly used in the United States, the Londoner is undismayed. When a new American word attracts him he imports it. But he imports it because it attracts him. He never imports it simply because it is current in America.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

We all need pleasure in our lives. Most of us manage to get more or less. Some of us are always postponing the time. "When I have put Mary through school, or the boys through college; when the new home is bought or furnished; when so many more acres of land become ours—then we'll have time for enjoyment." So we say. But it isn't safe to postpone enjoyment—for the chance for it may escape us.

Yes, we will need pleasure. Not so much the frothy variety that for the minute effervesces and then dies down to dregs, though even these may have a certain use in varying life's monotany. The trouble with this variety comes when we unduly magnify them to the expense of the more wholesome ones.

Some of us might laugh at the thought that family enjoyments are among the most satisfying, for they are so apt to be the first sacrifices at the call of business or outside pleasure. An evening at home is voted a bore by some. But it is far from being that—always granted that we have the right kind of families. A tithe of the money we spend without thought for outside enjoyment, if spent for some little extra luxury in the home, how it would warm hearts and bring happiness!

We all need pleasure. We can't all like the same variety. But it's well to remember, in our search, that happiness is often so near us that we overlook it. We may of necessity have to postpone expensive delights, but there are always just as genuine ones that are within the reach of the most slender purse. Don't let's overlook or minimize them.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

An English lecturer is talking to American audiences on the "Intelligence of Women." It is evident that he puts a very low estimate on such intelligence. Otherwise he never would have advised the girls to ignore youth and seek husbands of forty-five. That appears to be about his own age, and thus is construed easily as an expression of conceit He has a wife, however, so he is generous enough to be casting his influence in favor of others of his age who have not been sought.

HENRY JAMES

In the eyes of the girl in her teens or early twenties, forty-five is more than maturity; it is old age, sere and yellow. The union of twenty with forty-five would give the headline writer a chance rightfully to ring in the May and December chestnut. Judged by the records of the courts such a union would be unwise because unhappy.

By the time the wife had reached forty, perhaps still in the prime of her beauty, she would be fastened to a querulous or irritatingly placid antique, with whom she could have few tastes in common.

To be sure, she might be a widow, and perhaps this possibility is worth consideration.

Max Schroth, a native of Germany, resident of Manila, traveled 8000 miles in order to complete his naturalization as an American. He had taken out first papers, fought in the American army, and for years supposed himself to be a citizen. Finding his error, he hastened from Manila to Nebraska, and had the job duly finished.

"I feel like getting on my knees and thanking God that I am now a bona fide American citizen," he said.

There need be no hesitency in saying that Schroth will be a fine type of American citizen.

* * *

Mrs. Alberta Robinson of Seattle sued her mother-in-law, alleging that the latter had alienated the affections of the plaintiff's son from his mother. A jury considered the matter eighteen minutes and brought in a verdict of $25,000 damages. It was a jury of men and women.

Evidently there are limits to grandmother's rights, and the old lady may find that crossing them is an expensive operation.

* * *

In a complaint for divorce, a woman alleges that in fifteen years of married life, she never has had a dollar of her own. It would be a pleasure to draw up the decree.

Without any argument whatever, the average court or jury could not fail to see that the plaintiff is entitled to her freedom, half the estate in a lump, and to drag down fat alimony, at least until she shall have married a human being.

* * *

Just as had been expected, the law fixing a minimum wage for women has been attacked. "The efforts of legislators to determine the permanent wages of industry are necessarily futile," remarks one commentator.

Legislators have not, in this instance at least, attempted to do anything of the sort. All they have done is to ascertain the cost of living, and declare that work shall not be paid for at less than enough to cover this cost. On the other hand, the employer is at liberty to go as far above the minimum as his business may warrant.

Concerns unable, or unwilling to pay their employees on a decent scale, have no right to have employees.

* * *

Scientific men of France are making themselves ridiculous by opposing the admission of Madame Curie to the academy of science. They should be glad and proud to welcome an individual of greater attainment than themselves.

Madame Curie is a world figure. The average member of the academy is known only in the circle wherein his wisdom is expressed in abstruse papers, ponderous and dignified.

Fancy a French savant getting green-eyed at the rustle of a skirt!

* * *

Affections, labeled with a price mark, get into court so often that it may become an economic necessity to have affections in general appraised. With the valuation fixed in advance, the duties of the jury in alienation cases would be greatly simplified. There even seems a demand for a sliding scale, taking account, as in case of other merchandise, of the items of depreciation or enhanced worth.

In an eastern court, husband No. 1 is suing husband No. 2 for alienation of affections, while No. 2 is suing No. 3 on similar grounds, one woman being the inspiration of the whole muss. But No. 1 asks $50,000, while No. 2 demands $500,000.

It would appear that the lady has improved with age.

* * *

It is to be regretted that "normalcy" is coming into common use as a word. As a term in higher mathematics it was familiar to students before the President yanked it out of the obscurity of the textbook, and thrust it into the vocabulary of every day.

There are words that are objectionable per se. Some persons say "illy" when they mean "ill." They do it in face of the fact that there is no more reason for "illy" than there would be for "welly," which happily nobody has had the nerve to project into view yet. And some, meaning "normal," say "normalcy."

* * *

A criminal trial in which effort is made to establish the insanity of a sane person, is certain to degenerate into a farce at intervals. This is because the real purpose of the trial is ignored so as to confuse the jurors, and obscure the vital issue.

Happily a defendant cannot invariably succeed in cheating the law by this method, but he can, through the persistency of lawyers, make the whole procedure appear ridiculous.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

The least censorious observer must classify my friend King Watson as distinctly gabby. He is full of windy ideas. No one can talk more convincingly upon the needs and ills of the day, and very few have succeeded in doing less for King Watson than has Mr. Watson himself. It seems to be his theory that his friends owe him a living.

Four years ago Watson and myself were guests at the home of a mutual friend. Watson was in his best vein. His eyes shone, his cheeks flushed with a generous enthusiasm, he beat with resounding claps upon his wide breast. He declared that each of us had within himself the power to make of himself what he willed.

"We are the masters of our fate," he paraphrased. "We are the captains of our souls."

It happened that our host's young son was a listener. The young son was as fine a specimen of an absolutely worthless kid as I had ever known. He was cheeky, lazy, slack, and had a slight tincture of dishonesty run through it all. Yet somewhere in that unpromising material the eloquence of King Watson struck fire. We who knew King better paid but a sleepy attention to him. We smoked and somnolently listened. The boy listened and profited.

"I want Mr. Watson's address," he said to me the other day. "Dad says you know where he is. I want to write him a letter."

It developed that the boy had taken King seriously. He believed when King said that a man can make of himself what he wills. He was inspired, somehow, to make something of himself. His parents and his parents' friends and his teachers and his associates had only succeeded in confirming that youth in an ambition to become completely no-account. King's afternoon enthusiasm stirred something in him. In four years he has definitely established himself as a young man whose success may only be bounded by his own desire.

The smile came off my face while I listened to him. I'm no longer thinking about Watson as "poor old King." It isn't as easy to sneer as it used to be. After all, his theory seems to have been demonstrated.

Maybe we are the masters of our fate.

The one transplanted in the court of the Glenwood Mission Inn by ex-President Theodore Roosevelt is dead, notwithstanding the efforts of the wise horticultural doctors to revive it.

STERN DIRECTOR FELL FOR SHIRLEY

Howard Mitchell Says Talented Girl Is a Real Help

Howard M. Mitchell, who directed Miss Shirley Mason in her latest picture, "Queenie," showing at the Glendale theater today, remarked in a recent interview that Miss Mason was one of the most pleasing actresses to direct he had ever encountered. And Mr. Mitchell is certainly a man of experience. He has directed 18 photoplays for William Fox to date, and has handled many stars.

"Miss Mason doesn't demand anything—she only suggests. She is just as gentle off the screen as she is on the screen," is the director's way of putting it.

LEGION NOTES

San Francisco's veterans want homes and they're out to get them. This is clear from the fact that San Francisco leads the state in number of application filed with the veterans welfare board for aid under the farm and home purchase act. It was estimated today nearly twenty per cent of the five thousan applications on file have been received from cities in the bay district. Los Angeles is second to San Francisco in number of applications, Oakland is third. The majority of San Francisco and Oakland veterans prefer state aid for the purchase of homes rather than farms.

GRIFFITH HEADS DAIL EIREANN

The foreign minister under De Valera will head a provisional government to arrange for the establishment of the Irish free state. As a protest against the election of Griffith, De Valera's followers left the Dail chamber. Griffith's election was made unanimous.

RESTAURANT MAN WAS A BRAVE GUY

Tells Bandits Where to Go and Hides Behind Abutment

MODESTO, Cal., Jan. 10.—The sheriff's office is looking for three two-gun bandits who staged a holdup in Turlock yesterday with a comic side to it. Two of the men entered the California restaurant at daylight, leaving the third to guard their automobile. They found J. Vreneos, one of the proprietors, cutting up onions and garlic with a big cleaver.

"Hold up your hands!" they said.

"Go to h——" replied Vreneos. He hurled his big knife at them and dodged behind a concrete abutment. The men fired and the bullets chipped off big pieces of concrete without damaging Vreneos.

After opening fire on all the sugar bowls, salt and pepper shakers and vinegar bottles on the tables, the men left, taking cash and valuables worth $150.

JEAN CREAN IS WILLING TO MARRY

'Rescuer' of Monte Huckshorn Says He Will "Pop" Question

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—Jean E. Crean, Los Angeles hotel man, left for Southern California today after announcing he intended to marry Monte Huckhorn, attractive Kansas City divorcee. Philip Whitney of Kansas City remained here under charges of threatening to kill Miss Huckshorn, whom he claimed as his "common law" wife. Miss Huckshorn had nothing to say.

Crean "rescued" Miss Huckshorn from Whitney and caused Whitney's arrest two days ago, alleging he was holding Miss Huckshorn prisoner in a fashionable hotel.

"I will marry Monte and we will move to Shanghai," Crean declared. "That is if she will have me. She sort of wants to go into the movies and, you know, a woman may demand her own way."

THE RED DOG'S DREAM

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

Yes, Louie Thomson sat on Tommy Peele's woodpile and cried Because his dear red dog was gone. Of course, it wasn't his very own, but he couldn't stop loving it on that account, could he? He felt it ought to have been his. So did

It Was Gazing Up Into Louie Thomson' Eyes.

Tommy Peele and his kind old dog Watch, who did belong to each other. They felt so sorry they most cried themselves. Watch did whine.

But what of the poor red dog? It was all scrouched down in the back of its master's automobile Its bones ached from bouncing and bumping, but its heart ached more from grieving over the little boy it was leaving farther and farther behind. Only it didn't even dare to whine. The most it could do was to stand up sometimes, with its legs braced, and poke its head out over the door, as far as its chain would let it, and wonder how far they had travelled. Were they ever going to stop?

It was very late when its master at last turned in to a hotel in a little town. The poor dog almost wagged its tail, it was so glad to get in where it could get warm again. It wanted to lie down by the fire, but the man jerked its chain and made it stand up, the way it was trained, nose out, tail stiff, for every one to look at.

"There," said he proudly, "ain't he handsome? Cranbrook's Lyddite." (For that was the dog's proper name.) And he went on to explain where he got it, and how much he paid, and how well it could hunt. And the men walked round and admired it as if it were a cast-iron image of a dog, with no feelings at all.

Next they took it out to a dark, cold barn, and tied it up in an empty box stall without even a handful of straw to lie on. They shoved some food at it—not a bit like the nice warm meals Louie used to give it—but they never thought to offer it a drink and its throat was most too dry to swallow. But it gulped something down and then curled all up with its nose tucked in on its chest and its tail about its poor chilly toes and shivered itself to sleep.

It dreamed a wonderful dream. It seemed to be down by Dr. Muskrat's Pond. All the woodsfolk were there, it knew that, though the faces of some were all hazy and strange. Tommy and Watch, too, but it wasn't looking at any of them. It was gazing up into Louie Thomson's eyes. And Louie's hand was laid on its ears; it could feel it there, so nice and gentle and warm. What it really did feel was a long yellow finger of the jolly old sun, trying to wake it.

HARD BOILED WILL PROBABLY GET IN LIMELIGHT NOW

Will Be Searched for in Mexico to Testify in Washington

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Calling of "Hard Boiled" Smith as a witness, if he can be located, was considered today by the senate committee probing alleged hangings, murders and brutalities in the American army during the war. The investigators want Smith to testify concerning cruelty charges of soldiers who were in the American training camps near Paris.

If Smith, who is reported to be in Mexico, cannot be located, one of the officers who served under him at the Paris prison farm will be summoned, Senator Overman of the committee said.

The hearing opened today with Senator Watson of Georgia shooting questions at Col. W. A. Bethel of the army general staff about the eleven hangings of which the war department has record.

"Isn't it true," Watson asked, "that the people in America never heard a word about these hangings?"

Bethel said the hanging decrees were published in general orders and sent to every headquarters in the A. E. F.

"That was the only means of publication we had," he declared.

The committee decided to subpoena Representative Johnson of South Dakota, who charged in a speech in the house recently that American officers "frequently" shot men whom they considered a menace or cowards.

More former "doughboys" swore before the senate committee today that they saw Major H. L. Opie of Staunton, Va., shoot men under him in France.

COMMITTEE WILL MEET THURSDAY

King, chairman of the committee.

YOU AND I AND THE GATEPOST

"Between you and me and the gatepost"—how often has that been said,
And yet, old boyhood chum of mine, when the hours of the day had fled,
When the joys of the day were over, and the shadows were growing long,
And the other boys gone homeward with whistle and cry and song,
Old chum of my happy boyhood, how often we lingered there,
Just you and I and the gatepost, in the dusk and the twilit air,
And talked of our hopes and dreamings, and all of the things we'd say
Between you and me and the gatepost, at the close of a happy day.

You've been a boy, I know it, you man of the busy street,
And you know the dreams of boyhood were vivid and glad and sweet,
And you had a chum in boyhood, a chum who stood alone,
Above all your other playmates, a chum of your very own,
And you shared your treasures with him and you told him all your joy
And all of the glad and sad things in the friendly way of boys,
And oft when the day was over you talked and you lingered there,
Just you and he and the gatepost, in the dusk and the twilit air.

And nobody knew your dreamings and nobody quite knew his,
But you and he and the gatepost where the place of secrets is,
And nobody heard you talking—just a murmured hum and tone,
But you of that mystic circle who stood out there alone.
Old chum, how I often wonder when the tasks of the day are through,
Where you may be and how you are and whether the dreams came true
That nobody knew, and we told, when back from our play we fared,
Just you and I and the gatepost—what secrets we three have shared!

BRAND BLVD. ASS'N WILL ACT AT ONCE

a petition for the improvement of the roadway among the property owners whose land fronts on Brand boulevard. This will let land owners know how much the improvement will cost.

It is the concensus of opinion that if the people meet the Pacific Electric company half way, its officials will agree to carry its share of the expense of putting Brand boulevard in presentable condition.

Various ways of bringing about the improvement of Brand were discussed, but nothing definite was done other than stated. It was thought advisable that the chamber of commerce and the city council lead in whatever steps are taken for the improvement of this thoroughfare.

City Manager Reeves stated that the city is ready and anxious to do anything in its power to bring about the improvement, and S. Berman said that some time ago a petition was circulated among the property owners on Brand asking for the improvement and that the names of 75 per cent of the property owners were secured.

A report of a special acommittee of the Brand Boulevard Improvement association recommends the following steps to be taken for the improvement of that thoroughfare:

(1)—That the city of Glendale take immediate steps to establish the grades of all street crossings over the Pacific Electric tracks to correspond with the grades of Brand boulevard on either side By this means the Pacific Electric can be compelled to lower its tracks at the grade crossings which will ultimately result in lowering the grade of the entire roadway.

(2)—That Brand boulevard between Colorado street and the former Tropico boundary be paved and that proceedings be instituted immediately to that end. Under the law the Pacific Electric railway will have to pay its fair share of the cost of this improvement.

(3)—That such portions of the present right of way along Brand boulevard be condemned for street purposes and paved as from time to time may be necessary to keep up with the extension of the business district of the city.

(4)—That the Pacific Electric railway be urged to keep its right of way in a sightly condition and to oil the same as far south as Los Feliz road to prevent the growth of weeds thereon. That south of Los Feliz road to the Southern Pacific tracks, where the right of way is considerably wider, the space between the curb and the tracks should be parked either by planting flowers or a lawn This improvement is particularly desirable for the reason that practically all of the visitors to Glendale enter the city from the south and get their first views of the city along that portion of the boulevard. It is not to be expected that the Pacific Electric railway will maintain this improvement but the city can afford to adopt this as part of its park system it will transform an unkempt, unsightly railway right of way into a beautiful and attractive boulevard garden.

W. C. Wattles reported that the motor for the wig-wag signal at the intersection of Brand boulevard and the Southern Pacific tracks, where several accidents have occurred recently, is now on the ground and that the company will have it in working order soon.

The members of the executive committee of the Brand Boulevard Improvement association are as follows:

Mattison B. Jones, chairman; Charles B. Guthrie, secretary; Hal Davenport, King Booth, A. G. Spohr, O. A. Lane, D. Ripley Jackson, Kemper Campbell, T. W. Watson, Hartley Shaw, J. W. Usilton and A. W. Beach, with City Manager Reeves and City Attorney Woodard, who were added at last night's meeting.

The membership of the railway and transportation committee of the chamber of commerce, which met with the executive committee of the association last night, consists of Attorney G. H. King, chairman; L. T. Rowley, secretary; J. C. Barnette, W. C. Wattles, E. F. Heisser, David G. Crofton and Dr. Harrower.
